

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

NCS Completes Back-to-Back NATO Interface Control Officer Courses

NCS recently completed back-to-back NATO Interface Control Officer (NICO) Training Courses hosted by NAPMA in Geilenkirchen, Germany and by the NDMC in Nieuw Milligen, Netherlands. A total of 40 students from 11 countries and 3 NATO organizations completed the training, taking the total number of NICO graduates to more than 125.

We attribute the popularity and success of the NICO Training Program to the unique Instructional System Design (ISD) process and instructional techniques. This 100% reference based training program addresses more than 500 learning objectives, verified through our rigorous testing and evaluation process.

The joint / multi-national hands-on training environment has included Naval Forces (Petty Officer – Commander), Air Forces (Corporal – Lieutenant Colonel), and Ground Forces (Corporal – Major), improving cross pollination of ideas and procedures while improving international interoperability through the use of a Common Core Curriculum.

The next NICO Course, hosted by the UK JDLMO at RAF High Wycombe, will be 16 April – 4 May 2012. For more information, please email director@network-centric.com.
